

LtCol Tim Maxwell, USMC (retired), is President of SemperMax Support Fund working with wounded warriors and owner of TRUE-WARRIOR, a company honoring military service and working to provide job opportunities to veterans. He served 21 years as an infantry officer in the U.S. Marine Corps before retiring due to a penetrating traumatic brain injury sustained in Iraq on October 7, 2004. Today, due to his extraordinary leadership and vision, Marines at the Wounded Warrior Barracks (Maxwell Hall, named in his honor) located on Marine Corps Base Camp Lejeune, find improved recovery through team healing. His push to ensure that the needs of Wounded Warriors are met and the success of Maxwell Hall became a catalyst of reform and wounded warrior programs throughout DOD. His insight is attributed to the development of The Marine Corps Wounded Warrior Regiment.

He holds a Bachelor of Science in Industrial Engineering from Texas A&M University, a Masters in Operations Analysis from the Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, CA and an honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters from Park University.

LtCol Maxwell's personal awards include the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal, Purple Heart, Navy/Marine Corps Commendation Medal (3), Navy/Marine Corps Achievement Medal (2), Global War on Terrorism Expeditionary Medal, Global War on Terrorism Service Medal, Iraq Campaign Medal, the Sea Service Deployment Ribbon (6), and others. Other awards for service include: The Marine Corps League's Military Order of the Iron Mike award, the R.Lee Ermeys Ooh Rah Award, the President of the Veterans Leadership Program of Western Pennsylvania Award, Esquire Magazine's Best and Brightest Recognition, the Mack McKinney Award, and the Bobby Simpson Memorial Award.
